First Year of IJABE

Science and technology are constantly advancing. As a result of this progress, what it means to be a scientist is being redefined every day. Electronic publishing, one of the tools of this unstoppable movement of change and innovation, is also renewing itself by taking its share of evolution. At this point, IJABE has proudly taken its place at the forefront. However, we stay strong to maintain our publishing principles and our enthusiasm to contribute to positive science.

IJABE works with its own unique technical infrastructure. Despite the technical problems and deficiencies caused by this, it continued its publication life for a year and continued to improve itself and managed to indexed by six indexes.

In its first year, IJABE had the opportunity to publish a wide spectrum of studies. We are proud of all academics who trust us and publish their work with us in the field of scientific publishing, where profit-making begins to take precedence over scientific quality.

We would like to thank all our editorial board who supported our journal with their names, time and effort, especially our Chief Editor Assoc. Dr. M. Kerem Ün and Academic Editor Prof. Dr. Mustafa Kocakulak, who took their precious time to support our journal. In addition, we would like to thank all the valuable scientists who have not spared their valuable work and ideas from our journal and supported us with their publications. We hope that IJABE will continue to develop and maintain the principles on which it was built while developing for another year.
